DETAILED ACTION

1. This action is responsive to the amendment filed on 4/10/06. Claims 1-42 are canceled. Claims 43-48 are added. Claims 43-48 are pending and represent information processing apparatus and associated method of transferring grouped content.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

2. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

3. Claims 47-48 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention of the claims 47-48 are directed to non-statutory subject matter. Claims 47-48 recited "A computer-readable carrier, including a computer program instruction that cause an information processor to implement a method: " which are adapted to perform some steps.

The computer program and the program are non-statutory as not being tangible embodied in computer readable medium in a manner so as to be executable, and also claimed that the computer program/programming execute in a computer or by a computer are descriptive material per se and are not statutory because they are not capable of causing functional change in the computer (See MPEP section 2106, Seventh Edition, Revision No. dated February 2000, at page 2100-10 and 2100-11).

Art Unit: 2455

Other dependent claims, which are not specifically cited above are also rejected because of the deficiencies of their respective parent claims.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

5. Claims 43-48 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Johnson Patent No. 2009/0030978 A1. Johnson teaches the invention as claimed including media content device and system (see abstract).

6. As to claim 43, Johnson teaches an information processor comprising:

a detecting unit configured to detect that a portable device having content stored therein is connected to the information processor (page 3, paragraph 35-36; Johnson discloses that the processor of identifying a content associating between the mobile-content server and mobile devices);

a reading unit configured to read data from the portable device, the data identifying at least a portion of the content stored in the information processor (page 4, paragraph 41; page 5, paragraph 43; Johnson discloses that the processor of identifying a segments of the playback program or active content segment); and a generating unit configured to generate a package of identified content based on the data (page 3, paragraph 36; page 4, paragraph 38 & 41; Johnson discloses that the processor of generating a package of the content playlist).

7. As to claim 44, Johnson teaches the information processor as recited in claim 43, wherein a display control unit configured to control display of titles of the content belonging to the package generated when the package is selected (page 2, paragraph 27; page 3, paragraph 28; page 7, paragraph 58; page 10, paragraph 78; Johnson discloses that the processor of represents a segment of information such as song title, headline, events).

8. Claims 45-48 disclose a method and computer readable medium claims and do not teach or define any new limitations above claims 43-44 and therefore are rejected for similar reasons.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 43-48 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
